DevOps ENGINEER (F/M/X)

📍 Vienna or Barcelona   📅 2021/2022   💼 Fulltime

Our DevOps Team is currently looking for a DevOps Engineer (f/m/x) who has a strong drive for quality of his/her work, is eager to learn and share knowledge within our team and strives for delivering the best solution for our customers.

Your Tasks

- Transformation of business requirements into software solutions
- Manage different environments (development, QA and Production)
- Be part of the incident management and identify mitigations team
- Define deployment plans and manage software releases
- Increase the degree of automation across teams, projects, and products
- Pro-actively identify solutions for costs and performance optimization

Your Profile

- First experience in software development and solid understanding of IT systems architecture
- Experience with IT - operations, - monitoring, - security, - standards and procedures
- Experience with systems managed on premises as well as in cloud
- Experience with at least one container technology such as Docker or Kubernetes
- Experience with a source automation server like Gitlab
- Proficient in spoken English or German

Our Offer

- The opportunity to work on exciting AI-related projects and products
- A career path to develop your skills and expertise
- An international team with a wide range of expertise
- Flexible working hours and home office
- The stability of a company with 20 years of experience
- Team activities, free snacks and drinks

About us

Partium offers an AI-driven mobile and stationary parts search& identification solutions within industrial and retail environments. The company was formed by three of the world's leading providers of image recognition and visual search technology: U.S. based Slyce, Spain-based Catchoom and Austria-based Humai.

Salary

We offer market conform salaries considering your qualification and your work experience as well as the responsibilities associated to your role – guidance range 40k-70k Euro gross/year.

How to apply

Please send your application to jobs@partium.io

If you have any questions, feel free to contact our

Recruiting Manager

Stephan Ganzinger

+43 660 9127 849